REPARATIONS COMMISSION TO GO TO BERLIN SATURDAY

Paris, Oct. 24.—(By The A. P.)—A modification of Great Britain's position regarding reparations, indicated by Sir John Bradbury at a meeting of the reparations commission this afternoon, will make it possible for the commission to leave Paris for Berlin next Sunday with a unanimous final agreement on what measures will be imposed on Germany for the purpose of averting a total collapse of that country.

A unanimous decision to go to Berlin was taken after Sir John Bradbury had definitely made known that he, on behalf of Great Britain, was willing to declare Germany's internal reforms a default under any conditions, and also had declined to be a party to any move which might be construed as interfering with Germany's internal affairs.

This was a big surprise to the reparations commission, which was a decided concession to the French representative. Herebefore the British representative had refused to declare Germany in default under any conditions, and also had declined to be a party to any move which might be construed as interfering with Germany's internal affairs.

$25,000 For Guardian of Baby Guy Stillman

John A. Mack Awarded That Sum by Supreme Court Justice Morschauser—Other Allowances.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today awarded John A. Mack, guardian of Baby Guy Stillman, $25,000 for his services in finding the infant against the charge of illegitimacy brought by James A. Stillman, millionaire banker, in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Stillman.

The award was made by Justice Morschauser after he had heard evidence in the case, compensation at the rate of $150 a day for 148 days devoted to the case—a total of $22,800.

Justice Morschauser also signed today the final order in Stillman's divorce suit, denying him a divorce and affirming the legitimacy of Baby Guy, who Stillman alleged to be the illegitimate child of Fred R. Beauvais, Indian guide, who was named as co-respondent. The order held that Stillman had failed to prove Mrs. Stillman's adultery, and that he himself had been proven guilty of adultery with Florence Leeds, former show girl.

Counsel for Stillman had fought the granting of compensation to guardian Mack, contending that he was entitled only to his "taxable costs" in the case. They also had contended that Mack's fee was excessive, and that he had been proven guilty of adultery with Florence Leeds, former show girl.

In disposing of these objections, Justice Morschauser recalled that it had been shown that Mack was willing to spend money to purchase evidence, referring to letters he had written to Mack, written to Beauvais by Mrs. Stillman, for which the banker paid $10,000.

To meet these ministerial attacks on the guardian's fee, Mack's counsel had argued that Mack was entitled to a fee of $25,000 for his services, extending over two years.

He also contended that Mack's fee was excessive, and that he had been proven guilty of adultery with Florence Leeds, former show girl.
